[Abstract]

The Article 92 of People's Republic of China Insurance Law formulate the life insurance contract general transfer system in the process of insurance company's repeal and bankruptcy. However, the provision lays out the principle with less practical significance. Currently, insurance industry thrives in our country, and that calls for better system of insurance company market exiting, especially the system of applicant's interest protection, to maintain long-term profit. Insurance contract general transfer plays an important role in this area. In that case, this article will criticise the contemporary legislation on behalf of the comparative law, with the research on the relief system and the flexible measures..
